

IHEA Notes Measures to Enhance Integrity of International Education System and Support Students

Independent Higher Education Australia (IHEA) notes the measures announced on Saturday by the Albanese Government intended to enhance integrity in the international education system and support international students.

IHEA supports moves to bolster the integrity of Australia's international education sector.

Students who come to Australia to study are entitled to receive the full benefits and support of a world-class education.

International education is Australia's fourth largest export industry, so moves to strengthen integrity are crucial.

We also need to ensure that implementation of these latest measures benefits students and the sector, and do not unnecessarily hurt Australia's world-class international higher education system.

IHEA will continue to work closely with government to ensure processes are as thorough and robust as possible to maintain the integrity of Australia's international education sector.

Media Contact: Matthew Coote, IHEA Communications Manager (matthew.coote@ihea.edu.au)